

Steven P. Goodin

partner

Steve has more than 20 years of experience in complex business litigation involving economic development, commercial real estate transactions and employment-related disputes. A former state and federal prosecutor, Steve assists clients in inquiries by government agencies and has extensive experience conducting internal investigations. He also is well-versed in criminal defense, probate and securities-related litigation.

In addition to his legal career, Steve has dedicated much of his life to public service. He is a veteran of the Peace Corps and the U.S. Army Reserve (mobilized on active duty with XVIII Airborne Corps at Fort Bragg). Steve was appointed to Cincinnati City Council in the wake of the city's historic 2020 corruption scandal. He served with distinction, passing wide-ranging ethics reforms and a COVID-relief budget, and increasing funding for public safety.

A past trustee of the Southwestern Ohio Regional Transportation Authority and a member of many high-profile non-profit boards, Steve serves on the Hamilton County Regional Planning Commission and the USO Ohio board. He is a leader in the efforts to preserve the King Records building and tell the story of Cincinnati's rich music heritage to the rest of the country.
